Double Your Subscriptions to Loan, Urges McAdoo

Washington, Oct. 10.—Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo in an appeal for the people to buy Liberty Loan bonds, said today:—

"The brilliant victories of our British-American-French forces yesterday should impel every patriotic American immediately to double his subscription in Liberty bonds. That is the way to put the fourth loan over quickly and that is the best way to strengthen the fighting power of those brave men who are moving with such irresistible dash and success against the Germans.

"Let everyone double his subscription today and let everyone who has not subscribed make his subscription today. Don't put it off.

"Let our boys and our comrades in the battle line know that we are fighting with the same enthusiasm and determination here as they are over there and, more than all, that we appreciate as well as glory in, what they are doing not by words, but by deeds."

BUSINESS HOURS 2 OFFICERS DIE A FAILURE, SAY MERCHANTS

Congestion Not Relieved on "L",
Rush Period Only Advanced

Till a Later Hour
Boston's new business hours have seen a failure, according to several prominent downtown merchants who attended the Health Commission today. The fact was disclosed that instead of relieving congestion on the elevated the new hours only made the "peak" come at a later hour.

An immediate change will be made, it is expected that new hours will be from 9 to 4:30.

Following an announcement by Health Commissioner Woodworth that the conference was considering the matter of permanent relief as well as temporary, merchants stated that they would cheerfully abide by any decision of the board for temporary relief, but they would like to "go further into the situation" if the permanent relief was going to be considered at this time.

Police Commissioner of Gilchrist's stated the merchants would continue to aid the health commission in its attempt to check the epidemic, but added that he did not feel that the downtown merchants would issue to any proposition that would be required to make the new hours a success. He stated to relieve itself of its present burden.

This statement followed one made by an elevated official who suggested that stores be closed at 4 o'clock. This hour, according to the merchants, is their busiest hour. Chairman Frederick Macdonald of the Public Service Commission said he favored hiring women city after the elevated company had exhausted every means to get men.

Terrific fighting between Americans and Germans west of the Meuse and a new French drive in the Laon region were features of latest reports today from the field of war.

The American army northwest of Verdun is engaged in fierce conflict with the furiously resisting Germans. Hurling in reserves to protect their positions, the Germans launched heavy counter-attacks in the eastern fringe of the Argonne forest.

Corax furnished a sample at the intensity of the fighting. This place changed hands three times. Taken by the Americans, it was retaken by the Germans, only to be regained by the Americans in a new assault.

The Germans may be preparing for another retirement on the Meuse. Amersville, between three and four miles north of the river battle line, is in flames.

The new French attack in the Laon region was announced today by the Paris War Office.

This attack prompts the British and the Franco-American fronts in that sector and makes an active battle line about 100 miles long. The British War Office announced an extension of Marshal Haig's drive to lower Flanders earlier in the day.

Fresh progress is also reported for General Debeney's forces east of St. Quentin and for the French and American armies in the Champagne.

BRITISH ARMIES, SWIFT ADVANCE BY ALLIES TO THE EAST OF CAMBRAI AND IN LENS SECTOR

Magnificent successes are crowning the efforts of British arms in the North. British troops have advanced five miles on the Cambrai-St. Quentin front and have crossed the Cambrai-Le Cateau road, reaching a point only two miles from the German base at Le Cateau.

The British troops on the Flanders front are still going ahead and have advanced nearly two miles east of Lens, capturing two villages.

The Germans are burning many villages behind their front in Northern France, indicating that preparations are under way for another retreat over a wide front. The retirement may extend over a line of nearly forty miles, according to unofficial information from battle zone today.

So rapid was the British and American advance south of Cambrai that the Germans were completely demoralized.

On the Champagne front, the French are still pushing ahead. The Germans have been putting up stiff rear-guard resistance, but all counterattacks have broken down under the relentless pressure of General Gouraud's Franco-American army.

Fires Reported Far East of Le Cateau, as German Rout Continues

By JOHN T. PARKERSON, International News Service Staff Correspondent.

With the British Army on the Cambrai-St. Quentin front, Oct. 9 (night).—Fires were reported far east of Le Cateau today, more than ten miles eastward of the present battle line.

The Germans are burning many villages and everything they cannot carry off, and it is strongly indicated that another big retreat has begun.

British cavalry is reported to have reached the outskirts of Boulogne, an important town on the English Channel coast.

It is believed the Germans have entered the first stage of a new retreat, and a hurriedly prepared new line between Le Cateau and Valenciennes.

Thousands of additional prisoners and quantities of guns have fallen into the hands of the British.

British troops captured a German tank, the only little damaged. Cavalry pushed on ahead and captured a few and exploded in the area about Cauchy, Le Cateau, St. Quentin, St. Souplet, Valenciennes, Boulogne and Arras.

The German army apparently has thrown into complete confusion by the rapidity of the British advance.

So slight was the resistance in the British sector that the British are vented on the town marching in columns of four.

Five villages fell into the hands of the British on their dash past Cambrai. After taking Maubeuge, Cavalry has reached the St. Quentin-Bermy highway, threatening the German rear.

After capturing these villages the British pushed on towards Cauchy, American forces are advancing with the British.

Trapped Yankees Told Boches, "Go to Hell!"

By International News Service.

With the American Army Northwest of Verdun, Oct. 10.—"They can go to hell!"

This was the typically American answer of Major Whittlesley to a typical German demand for the surrender of the American battalion which was surrounded by the Germans in the Argonne forest.

The Germans captured the American from the battalion which lost its way while penetrating through the dense forest. They fed him meat and cabbage and endeavored otherwise to make a good impression upon him. Then the American was blindfolded and led to a point close to the location where the entrapped Americans were making such a vigorous stand despite the fact that they were without food and blankets.

He was given a neatly typewritten note, in English, addressed to Major Whittlesley reading:

"Americans, you are surrounded. Surrender in the name of humanity. You will be well treated."

Major Whittlesley took the note and stuffed it nonchalantly into his pocket as he remarked: "They can go to hell!"

The same night the American relief force arrived.

morning against the Kriemhilde position.

The attack centered on the Mamelle section of the Kriemhilde line and followed a cautious course of successive artillery bombardings.

The Mamelle section of the defense system rested on the crest of a hill and was strongly defended with barbed wire entanglements.

So violent was the American bombardment that the defenders were completely demoralized. They attempted to establish an outpost in front of the American line, but were driven off.

The whole of the Kriemhilde position was penetrated, thanks to the efficient work of the American artillery, in halting down the entanglements and reducing them. There was no other German line of defense for many miles in the rear of this system.

The capture of the hill took part in the fighting today southeast of Romagne, reported the Americans "had taken it—out of a lot of prisoners."

Along the Romagne-Cauchy road the German machine gun nests were numerous and the Germans put up stiff resistance. They succeeded in holding up our advance for a while.

The line now runs in a southeasterly direction from Romagne and south of Cauchy.

The battle was still continuing last night and the air was lighted up for miles by the flashes of the artillery.

At last reports the Americans were still making progress through the breach in the Kriemhilde line up the Cauchy valley. The weather was clear.

With the American Army Northwest of Verdun, Oct. 9 (night).—American patrols are approaching Sillery-sur-Meuse, nearly three miles in advance of the positions they captured on Tuesday.

Strong machine gun detachments were left behind which have been registering the American advance with great effectiveness.

More than 2,000 prisoners were captured in the forty-eight hours, all of them being machine gunners.

South of Sillery the Americans took strong German machine gun resistance during the afternoon.

The enemy had barricaded the outskirts of the town, but late in the afternoon the Americans broke through the resistance there tonight.

The Germans got up considerable resistance east of Romagne, but being favored there by high ground.

Heavy counter attacks were launched in this district and the Americans were forced back slightly, but after the attacks were repulsed the Germans were again driven rearward.

Nearby all German resistance north of Sillery, American troops took the ridge and formidable hill 280 at 10 o'clock this morning, after three hours desperate fighting.

The Germans were chased down the northern slope of the hill before the crush of the American infantry before noon.

The retreat of the enemy was heading off and a run forward and reached the Soumerange-Romagne road.

Progress was still being made this evening in this sector, while at the same time the Americans were advancing westward in their blows to the German counter-attacks with great violence and progress.

sentation in an Austrian parliament.

According to the Vienna correspondent of the Berliner Tageblatt, it is probable that a manifesto will soon be issued proclaiming Austria, Slavonia, Bosnia, Herzegovina and Dalmatia independent of the Austro-Hungarian Government.

A dispatch from Zurich says: "The movement to separate Hungary from Austria is making the most rapid progress, according to information received from Zurich. Czech newspapers in Austria-Hungary speak of the possibility of the separation of the empire have been completed. Slavic people have similar statements."

TO MEET VIENNA DEMANDS, a dispatch received by the London Exchange Telegraph states that a ministerial council held in Vienna has decided to introduce national autonomy for Austria-Hungary in order to meet President Wilson's situation for the liberation of all nationalities. The dispatch adds that the Czech members of the Austrian parliament were nominated to an imperial meeting this afternoon. The same paper reports that a Congress of German associations held in Austria adopted a resolution in favor of creating German State in that country, and that a union of all Polish territories would soon be proclaimed at Warsaw.

TURKEY CRUMBLING. Turkey, according to Henry Morgenthau, former ambassador to the Porte, is "absolutely crumbling." At a Liberty Lunch meeting in New York City, he said that Germany already knows she is defeated and quoted the German ambassador at Constantinople as having said to him that the Kaiser was preparing for another war.

He predicted that Turkey would fall within a few weeks, and that Austria would soon follow, leaving Germany standing alone, of Turkey, he said.

But has stood on four points—Jerusalem, Bagdad, Damascus and Constantinople. Three of these points have been taken away. It is impossible for Turkey to stand on one point, just as it is impossible for a chair to stand on one leg.

CONFUSION IN AUSTRIA. Absolute political confusion prevails in Austria, according to telegrams received today by Washington from Vienna and Budapest, and numerous reports have taken place. London reports that German newspapers no longer mention the fact that Austria-Hungary is breaking up.

FOOTHS IN THE EAST OPERATIONS SQUEEZING GERMANS OUT OF FRANCE

TIME FOR DECISIVE STRIKE MAY BE AT HAND, SAYS PAUL GAZETTE

A broad view of the battle front in France shows the development of three major operations by Foch.

One is the destruction of the Lorraine-Duval railway, which will leave a German retreat along the Moselle-Breilach coast.

The second is the deepening of the great salient between the allied pressure outward from Cambrai, a movement which has already been made, and the continued advance to within two miles of La Calan. If the movement is successful, the fall of Laon is bound to come, and with it the retreat of the German forces in France.

The first two operations are given greater force by the American thrust in the Meuse River, a movement which strikes directly at the vital Metz-Meudon Railroad. This is one of the two great German lateral lines of communication. Deprived of this route of supply, the German forces in the Meuse valley and the Laon-Absconfront front on the south would be isolated.

READY FOR FINAL TEST

The progress of events from day to day has raised the question whether Foch is ready to put the war to the final decision.

The Paul Mail Gazette says it thinks Foch is ready to put the war to the final decision. Foch has apparently decided the great moment.

Take the map of northern France. Draw a line from Verdun, where the northern end of the battle line rests, to the North Sea coast, straight down to Verdun of bloody memory.

The length of this straight line is about 100 miles. It is like the string of a gun, pointing west.

The low staff is the battle line, bending southward, broken up by two salients with a wedge between them. The length of the battle line is about 235 miles.

ALLIES THIRST IN WEDGE.

The battle line, from the North Sea down, follows the north line for about 25 miles to Reims, already reached by the Franco-Belgian forces. There the battle line bends southward in a broad curve that forms the little Lorraine salient.

Partly south, beyond the middle of the line, is the Laon salient, its apex, French territory, and its lower flank extending across the Meuse River and across the Alsace.

Between them, the French and British-American and French troops showed a broad wedge, which is a good progress, since it means the salient on either side.

YANKS BEHOLD BATTLEFRONT.

With the British spearhead, pushed forward from the Cambrai-Guise front, others the German in some salient between the advance of the American advance northward along the Meuse beyond the enemy's railroad communications from Metz to Verdun and then to the great central salient.

Men and supplies flow from Germany into France through the Meuse channels. One is the Metz-Meudon Railroad, the other the line from Cologne through Aachen.

With the Metz-Meudon Railroad cut, and the allies are within about twenty miles of it at the western point—the German rail command will be forced to make a detour by north and west to keep men and supplies from Metz. France over the eastern operation.

THIRD OPERATION DETAILED.

Undoubtedly the enemy has constructed light communication lines which are not set down in any map of the occupied country, but it is known that the great railways for communication have been the two trunk lines from Metz southwest through Verdun and from Cologne southwest through Liege.

THESE THREE MAJOR OPERATIONS.

The three major operations, the two of the Lorraine and Laon salients and the third, the advance to within two miles of La Calan, are all to advance the broad Foch strategy of something into the enemy along the cutting front, while moving from the lower end of the line to check one of his main supply lines.

The capture of Cambrai to the west, the capture of the Laon salient, the capture of the Metz-Meudon Railroad and the capture of the Laon salient, are the three major operations.

THREE POSSIBILITIES.

The American-French-British forces composing the allied strategy in the Cambrai-Guise front are in position to execute three functions, as follows:

1. Strike northward and work a squeezing movement on the Lorraine pocket.
2. Bend southward toward the Meuse and work a squeezing movement on the upper flank of the Laon salient, pressing the German forces into the Meuse valley.
3. March ahead outward, deepening the salient, pocketing the enemy more and more on either side and, at the same time, tearing through communication lines vital to the Germans.

It is reported, although not officially known, that Foch has sent heavy British reinforcements to the Belgian to add weight to the line already held there by King Albert's heroic Belgians and by French troops already in the country.

From this report it is inferred by many that a new drive is about to be launched north of the Lorraine salient.

A correspondent in London, the London Mail, says, very diplomatically, "Foch is ready to put the war to the final decision."

TUNNEL FROM LONDON TO IRELAND IS M. P. DREAM

London, Oct. 10.—Build a tunnel to Ireland, bring her closer to England geographically, and perhaps that will help toward political reconciliation.

Such is the dream of Graham Stewart, M. P., who has been assured that there are no engineering difficulties that make such a problem impossible. Stewart, however, says that the project has been referred to the Prime Minister and that, while the project is obviously impossible during the war, it will have serious consideration afterward.

GUARD BILLY SUNDAY FROM PROVIDENCE CRANKS

Providence, Oct. 10.—Billy Sunday was closely guarded by members of his party in order that letters and cards may not be sent him while he is resting this week owing to the ban on closing all public meetings.

That Sunday's appearance at a joke was demonstrated when a man yelled at him when he was leaving the Crown Hotel: "It's about your dollar bill!" "Ah!" said Sunday. "That was the smiling response as he continued on his way to the door."

Aside from this great drive, Americans are fighting on three other fronts. Near St. Etienne (B), the Second American Division, comprising the men who saved the day at Chateau Thierry, are pushing the line northward.

Reichstag Meets Saturday and Military Hope to Keep Up

People's Morale
By JOHN EDWIN NEVIN,
International News Service Staff
Correspondent.

Washington, Oct. 10.—Three days after the Reichstag met today, the German people are still waiting for a reply to the American ultimatum. The Reichstag will meet on Saturday, the 12th, and the German people are still waiting for a reply to the American ultimatum. The Reichstag will meet on Saturday, the 12th, and the German people are still waiting for a reply to the American ultimatum.

As was pointed out in these dispatches yesterday, it is no longer in an orderly manner that the German people are waiting for a reply to the American ultimatum. The Reichstag will meet on Saturday, the 12th, and the German people are still waiting for a reply to the American ultimatum.

In official quarters, attention was called to the wonder—many in the military are looking to the allied position as announced by President Wilson. When President Wilson framed his note, the most of the Hindenburg and all of the Staff had been in the hands of the German people.

There will be no surprise in diplomatic circles here if word comes before the end of the week that the key has been turned. The situation which exists in Germany is somewhat different. The various elements are awaiting word from President Wilson on the German overture. It is assumed that within the contents of the German note, which was sent to the United States, will be found a clear statement as to its position on the President's peace terms.

GERMAN ARMY LOSING HEART IN FIGHTING

Surrender of Bulgaria and Tossing of Other Allies Causes Depression, Prisoners Say
By JOHN T. PARKERSON,
International News Service Staff
Correspondent.

With the British Army in the Cambrai-Quentin front, Oct. 9 (Night). A great wave of depression has been caused in the German army by the collapse of Bulgaria and the tossing of Turkey and Austria, prisoners declare today.

During the day I saw several hundred depressed-looking captives in German camps in the rear of the American lines. One officer of more than average intelligence, said in English that the Kaiser has not got the same hold over the German people that he formerly had.

The German people still believed in the Kaiser to some extent, the officer said, but in the first flush of victory they are now opening their eyes.

The officer said that he did not believe that President Wilson would accept the latest German peace offer, although he had hoped so. His opinion was that the Kaiser has not got the same hold over the German people that he formerly had.

RAYMOND'S

GOOD HONEST PLAIN
CLOTHING

A Democratic Store Never Monkeys with Fancy Clothing or Fancy Expressions.

The common people have no more use for fancy clothing than they have for fancy expressions.

Fancy clothing is only fit for the Highbrow who wears corsets and lives on the efforts of his ancestors and who never sweats or whose blood never circulates only when dunned by his tailor or excited over a pinochle, bridge, golf or tennis game.

Fancy expressions confuse plain men, that's what fancy expressions are for. Expressions not approved by the masses are not good for plain people. Real humanity has a language of its own and is easily understood. Clothe your expressions in cowhide form and then the common people will know what you're talking about.

Some of the greatest writers like Shakespeare uttered many a so-called low-brow sentence.
That's why his writings have lived long after fancy expressions have been forgotten. Exactly the same with a democratic store, all its explanations (called advertising by proud-stores) are dressed in "shirtleeve" expressions, then the common people, the REAL PEOPLE who have made this the greatest democratic country on earth are not confused.

You can still count on one finger.

6,000 BARRERS OF SHIPS QUIT AT SQUANTUM

Men Leave Work for Day as Protest Because Wage Award Is Not Given Them

The 6,000 employees of the Squantum plant of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation attempted to hold a protest meeting at No. 1322 Dorchester avenue today, but were interrupted by the entrance of a police sergeant from station 11, who called their attention to the fact that they were not to be there. They then adjourned to Town Field, nearby, and held their meeting in the open air.

The police sergeant entered the meeting while General Organizer Joseph P. Maher was speaking, and that they must be on their best behavior, and must return to work tomorrow, as the protest against the wage award of one night only, Maher and Raymond H. Jackson, business agent of the shipbuilders' union, told them, with this effect to station 11.

Following a conference there, the men received permission to hold their meeting at Town Field.

As a result of the protest without, the men at the Squantum plant completely tied up today. The 2,500 night men will not return to work to night, it was declared.

SEND TELEGRAM TO CAPITAL.—Representatives of their action, the men have sent the following telegram to the Shipping Board at Washington:

"The employees of the Squantum plant have protested against the retroactive to March 28, which have not been put into effect. Only about the men, who presented their claims individually, have received their increase, they say. The wage award amounts to a 15 per cent. increase, according to its schedule, workers, employers, employers and employers would get 75 cents on shipbuilders' cost, means and the company, and is to report back to the meeting, Town Field."

NOT A STRIKE.—Charles F. Chapin, vice-president of the Shipbuilders' union, said in an address to the crowd said:

"I wish to impress upon the mind of the public that this is not a strike. It is a protest day. We are today a day's pay as an example to the Bethlehem Steel Corporation that we want that wage award which was given us in March."

"The United States government has told them to pay out that award and they have failed to do so, therefore it is up to us to get it, and we are taking the first step towards action."

"It has been the talk of the whole State that the ship workers are receiving enormous salaries; that we are afforded to pay higher rent; that we can afford to buy clothing and provisions and have automobiles to bring out to us. But I wish to say that we are not getting such a thing. Our money is being held back by the Bethlehem Steel Corporation."

"You men are dissatisfied, and as dissatisfied men you are entitled to satisfactory work. We are all working for our men, and that is what President Wilson, President Wilson has treated us fairly, but the Bethlehem Steel Corporation has not."

The speaker announced that there would be a meeting at 4 p. m. today of men on the night shift at Gibson playground, Fields Corner.

"They also will stay out one night," said Chapin, adding the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, between now and 4 o'clock give notice that the wage award will be paid."

"Regardless of whether it is given or not, the men will return to work tomorrow as usual."

"I have appealed to the Boston AMERICAN, the crowd added, which has always been fair to organized labor, to help us in seeing that justice and justice only is done."

GASLESS SUNDAY SUBSTITUTE PLANNED

Fuel Administration Decides Against Rationing Scheme; Has Another Idea

The fuel administration officials were working today upon a plan that may bring about a substitute for "gasless Sundays."

A series of conferences during the past few days has convinced them that a plan may be adopted that will permit Sunday motoring, and at the same time result in a saving of gasoline and oil.

Just what scheme these officials had in mind was not disclosed. They are, however, convinced that it will not involve the placing of motorists under "rationing."

This led to the belief that the administration might have under consideration a plan of limiting the daily supply of gasoline and oil to a certain number of gallons, with such a limited supply available to the motorist on the basis of a "gasless Sunday."

However, that this is the plan to be tried out was only conjecture. The officials said that no announcement would be made for several days. It was indicated that the new arrangement would be put into effect before the end of the month.

The protesting men claim that the wage award awarded them increases retroactive to March 28, which have not been put into effect. Only about the men, who presented their claims individually, have received their increase, they say. The wage award amounts to a 15 per cent. increase, according to its schedule, workers, employers, employers and employers would get 75 cents on shipbuilders' cost, means and the company, and is to report back to the meeting, Town Field.

Thoroughly Worked Out

No change in the Constitution was EVER MORE CAREFULLY CONSIDERED THAN THE INITIATIVE AND REFERENDUM AMENDMENT which has been recommended to the people of Massachusetts by the Constitutional Convention.

On this point Hon. Joseph Quincy, one of the most active and painstaking members of the Convention, writes:

"The political principle of the initiative and referendum seems to me clearly sound in a democratic government. NO MEASURE FOR THE APPLICATION OF THIS PRINCIPLE HAS EVER RECEIVED SUCH LONG AND CAREFUL CONSIDERATION, AS ALL OF ITS DETAILS, as the amendment which will be submitted to the people at our State election. I believe that it should be adopted by such a decisive vote as to leave no doubt of the attitude of the voters of Massachusetts."

The Convention has carefully and thoroughly done its part, and it now rests with the voters to grasp or throw away this indispensable means of OVERTHROWING THE INVISIBLE GOVERNMENT OF THE CORPORATION LOBBY AND MAKING GOVERNMENT BY AND FOR THE PEOPLE SAFE IN MASSACHUSETTS.

Do not forget that your vote may turn the scale for or against it. The Initiative and Referendum Amendment will be NUMBER ONE on the ballot. BE SURE AND VOTE FOR IT.

LUXURIOUS TAXES CHORAL UNION TO POWERED BY SPECIALIZE IN SENATE LIBERTY SONGS

Imposes on Automobiles and Accessories Virtually
Cut in Twain

Washington, Oct. 10.—The tax on automobiles was lowered and practically the entire schedule of luxury taxes in the revenue bill as passed by the House was adopted by the Senate Finance committee. The automobile tax was fixed at 3 per cent. of the selling price instead of 10 per cent.

The tax on tires, inner tubes and accessories, fixed by the House at 10 per cent., was also reduced to 5 per cent. These reductions place passenger automobiles on the same level as trucks, trailers and tractors for the purpose of taxation.

The tax of two cents a gallon on gasoline was not over for further consideration. The committee made rapid progress and, with the exception of the war profits section, has disposed of almost every important section in the bill.

TICKET SELLERS TAXES.
A similar tax on ticket sellers was among the provisions carried by the committee. The House tax on the profits of news stands and hotels selling theatre tickets was reduced from 5 per cent. on the amount of profit under fifty cents to 10 per cent. while on the profit in excess of fifty cents, the tax was reduced from 10 per cent. to 15 per cent.

Pipe organs were exempt from the new taxation by a change in the section under which they were taxed in 1917. The Senate amendment to the House bill exempts pipe organs from the tax on pianos and organs other than the organs from 10 per cent. to 15 per cent. while pipe organs, hand organs, piano players, graphophones, phonographs, talking machines and records will be taxed 10 per cent.

The tax on chewing gum was reduced from 8 per cent. to 4 per cent. and the tax on club dues was lowered from 20 per cent. to 10 per cent. The tax on membership on produce exchanges and boards of trade was struck from the bill.

The committee adopted the House provision levying a tax of 50 per cent. on theatre managers who sell tickets for special attractions in excess of the regular price, but lowered the tax on private boxes at the opera and similar performances from 25 per cent. to 20 per cent. of the price paid. The tax on every ten cents paid for admission to roof gardens and cabarets was adopted.

OTHER LEGISLATION.
Other bills have agreed to, with the change made by the Senate, are as follows: Picture, theatre and more than $10, trunk costing more than $10, values costing more than $10, tennis rackets, golf clubs, baseball bats, football bats, golf balls, fishing rods, billiard and pool tables, tennis, chess and checker boards, dice and other games, 10 per cent.; cameras, 10 per cent., and changed to apply to all cameras, irrespective of size or weight, under 10 per cent.

Firearms, shells and cartridges except those used by Federal or State or municipal authorities, 10 per cent. in the case of pistols and 10 per cent. in the case of all others.
Dress knives, bowie knives, daggers, sword canes, automatics and other knives, 10 per cent.; cut-throats, 10 per cent.; bayonets and shooting pistols, 10 per cent.; and bathing suits, 10 per cent.

MRS. WILSON SELECTS NAMES FOR NEW SHIPS

New York, Oct. 10.—Allen and Owsen, are the names selected by Mrs. Woodrow Wilson for two ships which will be launched at the yards of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation in Newark on October 14, in the presence of diplomatic representatives of the twenty-three allied nations. The launching will be one of the important features of the Liberty Loan campaign in this district.

By FRED J. McISAAC.
Compared to European nations, the Americans are a gush race. Our soldiers have to be urged to sing as they march, and they memorize the words even of the popular songs, with difficulty.

It is no joke that few Americans, even today, know the words of the second and third stanzas of "The Star Spangled Banner," and from the training camps the instructors in driving report with difficulty in awakening interest in anything but the cheapest sort of popular tunes.

Therefore, the work of such organizations as The People's Choral Union is more important now than ever, and the advertisement that it will continue its activities during the coming season is very good news.

This society's leaders, chorus line and night reading offers no obstacle to a good voice and invites all men and women to try for membership.

This season the society will specialize in Liberty songs and patriotic music. During the year it gives three or four concerts with the chorus of 100 and celebrated soloists. Director P. W. Woodell will receive applications at Jordan Hall at 2:30 p. m. next Sunday and will accept them at the secretary, P. O. Box 288, Boston.

Boys D. D. D. Healed Him of Skin Disease. It Will You, Too.

A few years ago I contracted a severe case of scabies, which spread all over my skin and amongst my stomach. I tried all the widely advertised "cure" remedies for scabies, but to no avail, and receiving no benefit therefrom I consulted physicians, but to no avail.

I suffered so from the continual itching that I was compelled to pass the three days and nights. As a last resort I purchased a large sized bottle of D. D. D. and in a very short time the itching entirely subsided, the sores disappeared and was entirely out of the institution "barn" in ten days.

Since then I have recommended D. D. D. to all those who are afflicted with scabies in the worst form, and they have all been relieved.

I have dragged my pain and all the accompanying misery, something which I have been unable to describe, but to those who go to purchase D. D. D. I say, D. D. D. is the best, as there is nothing so good for skin diseases.

I thank W. W. A. BUCKLAND, D. D. D., the liquid which has become a household word. It has proved itself a remarkable remedy. If you are a sufferer from skin disease, I give words will not disappoint you. It has cured the best and worst of the scabies problem the skin disease.

Business men and the war

THE only real business we have now is "winning the war." There is no such thing as private business; all business is the nation's business.

Clothes-buying and selling may seem to have nothing to do with war; but men must have them; they take materials and labor and they cost money. Therefore, clothes that save, help.

You can save by not buying more clothes than you need.

When you need clothes, you can save by buying good ones, that last long, and don't have to be replaced soon. We make that kind of clothes.

BIGGEST DROP YET GRP FATALITIES REPORTED TODAY

BOSTON SCHOOLS MAY OPEN MONDAY MORNING

The general situation in Boston, including the schools, is much improved, with the exception of the western part of the state, where the epidemic appears to be reaching its peak.

There was the situation in only one State communicated today by Dr. Terrell W. Clegg, of the state board of health.

The biggest drop in the number of deaths in the epidemic in Boston came today with a three-day record of twenty-eight deaths up to noon. This is sixteen deaths less than yesterday and only half the number of deaths recorded on days when the epidemic was at its height.

Health officials were jubilant over the decreased death record and predicted that it would mean a speedy end of the epidemic. Twenty-four of today's victims are dead of influenza and four of pneumonia.

Large demonstrations in the night were held in the city.

Schools which may open on Monday.

The action of the state board of health is to be safe on every point in some schools and not work.

Health, labor and traffic representatives planning reduction of traffic congestion.

If Dornier AMRHC's plan to take motion pictures of American soldiers in United States soldiers in France for shipment across the Atlantic to be shown to the women near the front lines in Germany is carried out, it is spoken in his name of the people recently suggested by William Hall.

I HAVE NEVER VISITED Ottawa and was greatly intrigued and astonished to find that the city which I had built up from the garden of my childhood was now a great, splendid, cosmopolitan city. The people I had known in my childhood had grown up and were now men and women of affairs. I had known them as boys and girls, but now I knew them as men and women. I had known them as children, but now I knew them as adults. I had known them as friends, but now I knew them as colleagues. I had known them as neighbors, but now I knew them as citizens. I had known them as subjects, but now I knew them as equals. I had known them as strangers, but now I knew them as friends. I had known them as enemies, but now I knew them as brothers. The men will be taken to or near the bottom of the mine, in packs and next morning buildings are evacuated for the first time so that the soldiers will get a first look at the Union town where they have to go. Many of the men of war will be made and sent in France as soon as possible.
